HONGKONG, APRIL 15TH, 1876.

THE terrible tragedy enacted on board the steamer Pelican on the 24th ultimo, between Mithe and Vinlong, news of which has come from Saigon, was evidently planned beforehand, and the perpetrators of it must have. been old hands at the work. At first sight it seems almost incredible that four men should be able to overcome the whole crew and the remaining passengers as well. But their victime, unconscious of impending danger, were not prepared for the sudden uttack; and, doubtless imagined the pirates were more numerous than they were. The panie was evidently most complete, nor is it much to be wondered at when the desperate violence of the pirates is considered. Murder followed murder in rapid and terrifying succession, and the horrified and startled erew seem to been paralysed with terror. It is believed that at least ten of the crew and passongers were either murdered or drowned, to exact the fullest satisfaction from China for made mounds of earth, and block of stone, with white jackets, carrying heavy jars of with 26 lives, The pirates; baving plundered, then scattled the vessel. Now it is obvious that these desperadoes must have had some assistance; indeed, it is stated that one of the firemen was in collusion with them and participated in the crimes committed. But even with his assistance, it is surprising that the daring attempt should have proved so entirely successful. only a judicious and politic but also a thoroughly sound investment. There is not the slightest doubt that the trafficthrough the Canal will go on increasing, and its future prospects are consequently excellent. M. Buayanev estimates from official documents that the total foreign trade of Indias alone employs between five and six millions of tons aunually. In six years, therefore, concludes, half the foreign trade of India has taken the route of the Suez Canal. Here, however, he seems to bave made a slight mistake: Surely he' does not mean to say that the whole of the traffic through the Canal is Indian! THE CHINESE FESTIVAL OF SWEEP ING THE TOMBS.

A correspondent offers the following interest me remarks apropos of the Chinese Festiva which has been lately celebrated :- As I ece rour attention has just been called to the Great spring Featival of " Sweeping the Tomba" and you have noted so carefully the order of the procession (or ' Hway' no the Chinese call it) perhaps you (or some of your readers) might value a short explanation of the mise en scens, particularly as the festival is a great favourito among the people. It belongs neither to Briddhism, Taoism, or Confucianism, nor is any priest Mr. Reira, clerk, charged bis house coolic, allowed to join it; yet as it is sanctioned by the Oban Akwan, with insofence in his bouse after Emperor it has doubtless a deep political meanbeing discharged. Prisoner was fined tos.; ing and may be considered a masterpiece of state policy, binding people and rulers to the present dynasty. Ostonsibly the festival is in honour of the manes of the dead - eweeping their tombs and keeping them clear of svil spirits, which are supposed to be subject to the power of "Ch'en Huang" the protecting god of the nity and district of Shanghai. He was a hero of the Ming dynastic who is appointed. by the present Emperor to rule the spirits of the dead Mings in Hades, and also all the dead of this dynasty who go to that unucen land from Shanghai city or district. Three times each year he, Ch, an Huang, is allowed to appear time-be under his dominion in Hades.
